

Individual Work:

Research available software engineering positions on websites such as the post bulletin classifieds, monster.com, etc. to get a feel for what companies are looking for (both in the local area and nationally). Check out commonly desired skills as well as descriptions of tasks to be performed.

Combine the results and write up a document describing these results. One way to summarize the results would be to write a job description for an imaginary company. Attach copies of several of websites you found during your research. Be prepared to present these results in class.

Submit a hardcopy of your work at the beginning of class on Tuesday.
